Following his appearance here Roosevelt will leave immediately for Grass Valley for another talk and open forum.

The local appearance will be the first of a Mother Lode tour which includes stops at Placerville, Jackson, Sutter Creek, Angels Camp, Sonora and Mariposa.

Roosevelt's Mother Lode tour committee will meet him in Nevada City and make the two day trip with him.

Harold Berliner, democratic county chairman, Frank G. Finnigan and Dr. Walter Hawkins are local men in charge of the rally.

YOUNG MAN DIES FROM BROKEN NECK IN DIVE

George Phillips, 33, Grass Valley, lumber and mine worker, whose neck was broken when he dove against a rock in a Deer creek swimming hole near Newtown Sunday, died Wednesday night in Community hospital in Grass Valley.

Phillips was a member of a picnic swimming party at the summer cabin of Harold Moneyhun, Grass Valley.

Witnesses said he dove from the bank of the pool and floated to the surface a few moments later semiconscious and severely cut on the face and head. At the hospital it was learned he was paralyzed below the hips as a resclt of a broken neck.

He is survived by a brother, Harry Phillips, and his parents, in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Myers Grass Valley mortuary.

MAX SOLARO RESIGNS AS CHIEF OF POLICE

Max Solaro has resigned as chief of police of Nevada City effective this morning. J. J. Jackson has been named acting chief to serve until a permanent appointee is named at city council Thursday evening.

Solaro made the announcement Tuesday stating he will take a job as tractor operator for a local sawmill.

Solaro has been with the Nevada City police department for 11 years, with the exception of a leave of absence when he was serving with the army in World War II.

Solaro was also employed as driver of the fire truck here. The fire department is considering a replacement for the job and will submit their recommendation at the Thursday council.

Editorial

Let's Keep Solaro!!

Max Solaro's resignation from Nevada City's municipal family becomes effective today.

Eleven years of training in all divisions of municipal law enforcement, mechanics and transportation—training financed by the taxpayers of Nevada City—goes down the drain.

The city is losing a man who can do more things and do them well than any other member of the municipal staff.

In Solaro's personal files are several letters from local youths who have recently joined the armed forces. The letters all contain such expressions as "I'm awful glad you straightened me out, Max." "Thanks a lot for helping me get squared away," "Believe me, I appreciate your friendship when I really needed it."

Letters like that aren't ordinarily written by boys who have had a brush with law enforcement.

Solaro has been the sparkplug in getting the Pioneer Park Narrow Gauge underway and he has promised to finish the job even though he will no longer be part of the city staff. His long range plans for the park include a merry-go-round, an aerial swing and other kid pleasure rides.

It is a safe bet that Max will complete the project—furthermore he will complete it on his own time.

Day or night for eleven years Max has followed a policy of cooperation with anyone who wants to get things done.

He is a qualified repairman in all the branches of electircal, plumbing or mechanical work. By constant push he was able to get city appropriations for material for the municipal warehouse. He did a major portion of the work on it.

Scores of Nevada City housewives can recall when Max rushed across town to open a clogged sewer, repair a leaking faucet, remove a porcupine from the garden hedge or to get a dead cat out of the basement.

He can pilot any piece of city equipment and furthermore he can keep the equipment in running order.

He follows a policy of "get the job done right now"—a policy which should be adopted by other municipal departments.

If Max wishes to resign from the post of police chief we can understand it!

If he wants to raise his family away from the municipal apartment upstairs from the jail, we can understand that too!

But if the city council canont figure out some way of keeping such talent and zeal in the municipal organization THAT we will not be able to understand!

CANCER FUND DRIVE SURPASSES QUOTA

The $1,575 Cancer Fund Drive quota for Nevada county has been surpassed according to an announcement yesterday by H. A. Curnow and Wesley Donnenwirth, chairmen of the drive.

Curnow said the drive was assured of success by the generous support of the Truckee district, with Anne J. Scott as chairman.

Curnow and the chairmen said they wish to convey their appreciation to the committeemen and the public for their assistance and contributions for this most worthy cause.

LOCAL CENTER CAPTURES HIGH HONOR AT FAIR

Nevada City Farm Center-with a feature booth display rated high in both artistry and educational qualities, easily took first prize in community booth judging at the Nevada County Fair in Grass Valley last week.

The award carried a $275 cash prize. The exhibit committee of the local center was headed by Fred Bush, Pioneer park superintendent.

The juages were Stuart Waite, manager of the Yolo county fair; Roy Welsh, manager of the Yuba-Sutter fair and Maurice Hogan, manager of the Butte county fair at Chico.

Against a foreground of top quality fruits and vegetables spilling from two large cornucopias the back-drop carried a large map of Nevada County and a painting by Guff Vesley showing mountain ranch, a saw mill and a mine depicting the three principal industries of the area.

The Penn Valley Farm Center showed a model ranch with garden, orchards, corrals, barns, home and pasture was awarded second prize of $250.

GAUDY GREEN AND GOLD SHARES AVAILABLE TO PUBLIC TOMORROW NIGHT AT STREET DANCE, SHOW

A gaudy and almost forgotten era in Nevada County's history will be revived here tomorrow night when stock in the Pioneer Park Narrow Gauge Railroad goes on sale at a bond sales booth during the street dance in front of the Elks building.

The funds raised by the sale of stock shares will be used to finance construction of a midget railroad which will circle Pioneer park.

Construction work will be directed by Max Solaro who has already completed construction of the locomotive and expects to start work on track laying and rolling stock early this fall. Solaro bears the imposing title of Chief Engineer and Construction Superintendent.

President of the board of directors will be George H. Calanan, city clerk and at one time vice president of the Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railway which discontinued operations in 1942 at the end of a 66-year period which covered the most glamorous era of railroading in the west.

Robert Paine, one time freight and passenger agent of the Nevada County Narrow Gauge, will be secretary of the board and Horace A. Curnow, Nevada City branch manager of the Bank of America, will be treasurer of the corporation.

Other directors will be William C. Briggs, om the municipal recreation committee and J. F. Siegfried, engineer and civic leader.

Old timers here recall the days when stock sales in Nevada City were common occurrences and smooth tongued orators clad in claw hammer coats explained the virtue of their gilt edged bonds while cider and cigars and frequently stronger inducements were offered free to all comers. A stock sale in those robust years was more than a financial affair and was considered a social event.

The flamboyant green and gold certificates to be issued by the Pioneer park line are close duplicates of the old type shares issued during the Gay Nineties.

The bonds however clearly say that they have only historical, recreational and traditional value.

The issue will be limited to 1,000 numbered certificates. Secretary Robert Paine reported this morning that the issue was nearly ten percent sold before the first certificate was printed. Applications for sizable blocks of stock have been received from Richmond, San Francisco, Stockton and other places in central California.

President Calanan said sale of the present issue of stock will be adequate to finance the line during its present plans.

At the completion of the track laying an elaborate celebration has been planned complete with a bunting-draped speaker rostrum and the driving of a golden spike.

Featured attraction at the Saturday night program is the musical program and street dancing conducted by Frank Stewart, local impresario.

Stewart said he will have Walter (Scottie) Beaton, who trained under the late Sir Harry Lauder; accordion music by Frank Cartoscelli; banjo selections by William Kohler of North San Juan; a duet by Diana and Gay Carter; vocal selections by the Peterson brothers, a comedy act by Lucy Murchel, Chet Murchel and the emcee.

Music for the street dance will be furnished by Larry Parsons and his orchestra.

WESTERN SOLON URGES RETURN TO FREE MARKET

U. S. Senator Harry P. Cain of Washington called for restoration of the right to convert dollars into gold for a free open market for gold.

Addressing the 1950 metal mining convention of the American Mining Congress, in Salt Lake City Monday, Senator Cain denounced the "raw deal" in gold adopted early in 1933 and "devised by the fertile minds of irresponsible young braintwisters", He said:

"The United States was pushed off the gold standard by scheming planners. In a matter of the deepest concern to every citizen and in spite of repeated professions of solicitude for the ultimate welfare of that citizen, the government of this country was very careful never to give him an opportunity to express his views on the subject. In fact the administration, which was probably already contemplating repudiation, deliberately deceived the voting public up to the very eve of the (1932) election."

Cain declared:

"The maintenance of a $35 price for gold is both unjust and unrealistic. It is unjust to the men who toil to produce it and are not permitted to expose their product in the open market for the best price which free bidders are willing to pay. This denial

LET'S MAKE IT A COUNTY FAIR

The Eighth annual Nevada County Fair which closed Sunday night has been declared a success both in number of exhibits and exhibitors and in attendance.

We heartily agree with this declaration.

The livestock show was literally a parade of champions from leading ranches and farms of northern California.

Agricultural and horticultural exhibits gave a good picture of the county's best in fruits and vegetables.

The 4-H club displays and livestock exhibit showed that the county can also produce a good crop of future farmers, ranchers and dairyists.

But sad to relate, Nevada City's participation was not what it should have been.

With the exception of the prize winning feature booth of the Nevada City Farm Center and individual participation of young Jack Townsend in the 4-H club classes, and Mrs. Jean Brass in the vegetable sweepstakes plus a few other participants here and there, the show was chiefly a Grass Valley and west county affair.

Even in such events as the newspaper carrier contest and the junior pet show the entry lists showed Grass Valley participants in overwhelming majority.

Among the commercial and industrial exhibitors one Nevada City firm reserved display space.

Some Nevada Cityans have cynically called the fair the "Grass Valley County Fair."

If they are right, who is to blame?

Certainly not the officials of the fair! The same information that reaches the people of Grass Valley reaches the residents of Nevada City. Premium books are available to all. Entry blanks may be had for the asking.

Perhaps the condition can be blamed to indifference and apathy of Nevada City folks—an indifference which has allowed the chamber of commerce to sink to the point of ineffectiveness—an indifference which has allowed the junior chamber to sink to the state of three-man meetings—an apathy which has caused the city's promotional load to fall on a few tired shoulders.

BACK TO—DON'T SAY IT!

Maybe we shouldn't mention it but Tuesday morning the kids are going to wake up and find that there's nothing left to live for. That's the day the local schools start. Such cruelty. They have to get up in the morning and wash their faces. They have to sit in a classroom part of the day and do homework (maybe) at night. All the time they have off is several hours in the afternoon and all day Saturday and Sunday.

WHEN GOVERNMENT RUNS A BUSINESS

Two giant enterprises in the communications field in this country are the Bell Telephone system and the U. S. post office department. The privately owned Bell system paid $346,144,000 in taxes last year, while the post office department, of course, paid none. The Bell system operated at a substantial profit, while the postal service incurred an operating loss of $577,471,000. The total value of all physical properties owned by the Bell system is reported at $9,500,000,000. The post office department has no idea whatever of the value of its vast property holdings.

MISSING: 9,000 TANKS. About 85,000 tanks were produced in this country during World War II. Army records at the end of the war indicated that 25,000 of them should be on hand. But the army could account for only 16,000. The other 9,000 had disappeared, according to the Hoover commission task force report.

"CONTROLLING THE PRESS"

This morning a new editor takes over the reins of the Moose Lake, Minn., Star-Gazette, and we can't decide which editor—the incoming or outgoing man—deserves compassion most.

Jim Etzell, the retiring editor, was winner of "courage in journalism" award, and third in general excellence in the National Editorial Association contest this year, but despite those awards he could not win his town.

Etzell took over the Star-Gazette three years ago and found his predecessors had not covered city council, supervisors, school board, or court news. He started publishing the information, which in itself will not gain the mass enmity of the town, as happened in Moose Lake. The zealous editor was evidently tactless in his relations with news sources. Etzell, in a statement, said he "pulled no punches" and "as my enemies grew, I lost business."

The county clerk of court denied him access to public records, an action we have never run across while employed by several newspapers throughout the country. The supervisors awarded the county printing to another paper. In both cases, Etzell editorially criticized. Community resentment followed with an advertising boycott.

In a statement to the press, Etzell declared, "If we refuse to have the courage of our convictions and give up our duty to report the news in preference to the advertising dollar, I fear that we will, in this country of ours, be giving up all our freedoms which have made our chase after the dollar possible. If businessmen can control the press, it can happen in other towns besides Moose Lake."

The case has been interesting to us, but we feel the fault is more with Etzell than with Moose Lake. When we came to Nevada City in February, 1949, we found reporting of community activities apathetic, and in our building up of a regular news beat we ran into apathy and a partial lack of cooperation by officials, but we have never run into a denial of public information and records. In adopting a vigorous editorial policy and news presentation we have incurred the temporary animosity of a few, but in the end have gained their respect and confidence.

OUR CONGRESSMAN REPORTS:

By CLAIR ENGLE

Access Road Prospect Brightens

The Korean war crisis and the probability of a larger permanent military establishment has improved the prospects of more money for access timber roads. Senator Morse of Oregon and I have had a bill pending before the house committee on agriculture for some months, which would provide a total of $30,000,000 per year for a period of five years on an access road program. However, until recently emphasis on economy made it useless to try to get the bill through—even though the testimony of the department of agriculture showed that something like 2,000,000,000 board feet of timber a year is rotting and going to waste in the national forests due to inaccessability and over-maturity. An increasingly large and available supply of lumber and lumber products are essential to any sustained war effort. Last week a subcommittee of the committee on agriculture gave our bill a hearing. The hearing was attended by Senator Morse, Congressman Ellsworth of Oregon, by me, representatives of the forest service, and representatives of numerous luhber associations. All the testimony was favorable—no opposition appeared or has been registered. At present the prospects are a little brighter for favorable action by the committee. Since the war, there has been very little money available for access roads. Out of the current budget for forest roads and trails, less than $2,000,000 will be made available for all the national forests in the nation. $30,000,000 a year is not a great deal of money for this purpose when scattered all over the U. S.,—but it will help.

More Old Age Security

The problems of our elder citizens came in for top-spot consideration recently in Washington. The congress agreed to the new social security bill which adds some 10 million persons to the 35 million now cevered by old-age benefits. When the bill is signed into law by the president, it will provide:

An increase in pensions by about 77½ percent to those now on the rolls.

Approximately double payments for those retiring in the future.

Includes for retirement payments the self-employed and small business men, with some exceptions

Raises from $3000 to $3600 the amount of yearly pay taxed for social security.

Starting in 1954 a gradual rise from the present 1½ percent to 3¼ percent levy on workers and employers.

Domestic Budget "Roll Back" Proposed

The bill to rescind the postmaster general's reduction of residential mail delivery to once a day passed the house last week. I didn't vote for it. The reports from my district indicated that there was not very much criticism of the reduetion in service. As a matter of fact, about 85 per cent of the mail is delivered on the first delivery anyway. And in my district a large part of the mail is delivered on rural and star routes where the people get their mail only once a day—and in some instances only three times week. Whatever the merits of twice a day delivery in the residential sections, (and there may be some merit in the larger cities and towns) it seems to me that the situtation has changed since the Korean war. There has to be a curtailment of the government's services and we have to start somewhere. During all of this talk about price control and price "roll back" it may be forgotten that the federal domestic budget (exclusive of military, foreign affairs and appropriations for past wars) is still several billion dollars higher than it was prewar. While roll backs are being considered, it might be a good idea to think about a "roll back" in government domestic expenses to a point nearer to what it was pre-World War II, when we thought the depression-grown federal government was already oversize.

Water Politics

Newspaper and radio reports of the past few days have described vaguely a gigantic project to bring Columbia river water into California. The project is proposed by the department of interior and assertedly has the interest of President Truman.

The purpose of this proposed project is not, as stated, to "solve California's water problem". The purpose is to solve Arizona's water problem by turning over to Arizona California's water in the Colorado river. California will not be misled or fooled by this obvious strategy into giving up her established rights and huge investment on the Colorado river for any such will-of-the-wisp. Moreover, the people on the Columbia and Snake rivers should clearly understand what is going on—their water is to be exported at huge expense in order that an exchange can occur by which Arizona will get the water in the Colorado river. It is a clever scheme designed in the interior department to eliminate California's opposition to the fantastic Arizona project, which has been proposed by the interior department, and will use water to which California has long-established legal rights. California is to be promised pie in the sky from the Columbia river and ask to drop her opposition to the Central Arizona project and give up long-established legal rights to the waters of the Colorado and abandon diversion works on the Colorado costing hundreds of millions of dollars. Of course, if Arizona is able to perpetrate a theft of the Colorado river waters from California it may be necessary at some future time for California to look elsewhere. For the present, however, California will stand on her established rights and investments and develop remaining water potential, which is substantial, within her own borders and in the Colorado river.

TAILINGS

By Jim Towne

MISDIRECTION. One of our current novels deals with the disintegration of the American family. The dad, a good man and printer with a flourishing business, goes to pot when the children are grown. The business has gone the same way. So have the kids. The situation is that of countless families throughout our great land. In recent months it has been the subject for other novelists and non-fiction writers. But this young author puts over the idea that it has all happened because of misdirection. It has taken a man not yet in his thirties to hit the proverbial nail on the head.

AFFAIRS. We seem to be off the beam in both domestic and foreign affairs. All sorts of theories have been offered to clear delicate situations. What caused them to arise in the beginning? Let us take a tip from the young author. After all the nation is a big family and misdirection is what will make it a pot. Counties and states can be likened to the printer's business. Clicking counties whose people pull together mean strong states. Such states mean an invincible nation. Direction in politics and economics is necessary. How about dusting off some of our old fashioned fundamentals. They are rather harsh but they can keep a family stepping along the right road.

STRENGTH. Strong families can dominate a county, throw out rotten politics and false economies. Result, a strong state, and strong states with representatives in Congress who are capable of the direction of the nation's need. One man can't do it all. It takes the northerner, the southerner, the man from the east and the westerner. Plus an important factor, sensible women voters behind them, as every man who fathers a family needs a sensible wife.

MURDER. Recently we were all shocked to hear of and to read about a murder committed by a fourteen year old girl. Jealousy the apparent motive. Careful analysing the tragedy one feels that misdirection played a part in bringing it about. Granted that fathers and mothers are busy people, but they should not be too busy to talk over the likes and dislikes of their children. When they detect friction they should get to the root of the trouble. If the problem is beyond them there are the ministers, priests and youth directors of a community who are only too willing to help a family. It is a part of their training to know how to talk to a boy or a girl. Jealousy is a childhood disease that if not cured in its beginning can result in murder.

SPEEDBOATING WILL FEATURE THE STATE FAIR

Speedboat racing, augmented by the Fair Water Ski Follies, will provide plenty of thrills for thousands of visitors on both Sundays during the California state fair which is being held Aug. 31 through Sept. 10.

Outboards, with the best drivers on the Pacific coast handling the tricky craft, will race Sept. 3, and the inboards will take over the following Sunday. The races will be held from approximately 12:30 to 5 P. M.

With Harold D. (Ski Bum) Brown directing, the Water Follies will be held both Sundays. Brown has secured such stars as Larry Gallagher and Janice Brown, of Stockton; Roy Beach, Chico; and Gean Dorn, Oakland. Sacramento performers will give an exhibition of jumping.

The program provides for Gallagher to perform a series of stunts, including the most difficult one of using barefeet for skiis. Fifteen years of age, he is one of three persons in the world who can accomplish the feat.

Beach stars in a stunt in which he travels on skiis at 30 miles an hour by grasping the tow rope in his teeth. Janice Brown's specialty is her forward swan on skiis. Dorn, who has won many cups on the Pacific coast, will be featured in a jumping exhibition. Comedy will be provided by Director Brown who will present his famed water clowning act.

Water in the giant acquatic course constructed in the race track infield has reached racing level and all is in readiness for the speedboats to take over Sunday afternoons.

Speedboat racing is a new attraction at the state fair which this year offers more than ever before for the low admission cost of 50 cents, including Federal tax.

The greatest program of free entertainment features 16 bands, numerous drum and bugle corps, circus acts, puppet shows, fireworks, strolling musicians, and a host of other novelty acts.

Exhibits have been expanded and both horse show and major racing meet will offer better thoroughbreds and standardbreds than ever before.

The flower show, exhibits of 36 counties, displays by eight foreign nations, California cookery, and many other features will contribute to giving California its greatest State Fair.

SIERRA COUNTY UPS BASIC TAX RATE

Sierra county's basic tax rate for 1950-51 will be $2.79, an increase of 39 cents over last year.

Increases include general fund, nine cents; salary fund, 20c; security and welfare, 27c; general reserve, three cents; advertising and promotion, four cents; ambulance, three cents.

There was no welfare and security fund last year.

Taxes will be levied on an assessed valuation of $4,428,680 as against $4,250,640 last year.

DIAMOND ARROW RANCH ENDS SEASON

As Diamond Arrow Ranch Camp nears the end of its second season of operation the owners, Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Siegel and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Dasovic, want to express their thanks to the business men and merchants of Nevada City and Grass Valley who have played an important part in assuring the success of the camp. The interest, help, and cooperation of the citizens of the "Twin Cities" is sincerely appreciated.

The camp, located on the North Bloomfield road, approximately six miles from Nevada City, offer boys in the six to twelve age group, the finest in camping. Facilities are available for swimming, riding, riflery, archery, crafts and many major and minor sports. Gold panning, fishing, overnight pack trips, and educational field tours are features which also appeal to campers.

The staff, one of the finest in northern California, is headed by the owners who are teachers by profession. Young college men serve as counselors — one for every five or six campers.

The program is designed to provide each youngster with an opportunity to learn the fundamentals of every activity. The daily schedule, while flexible, still includes some time spent learning and practicing the techniques of the various sports. We are proud to state that not one camper has left Diamond Arrow Ranch Camp a non-swimmer.

There are two five-week camping sessions at Diamond Arrow Ranch Camp. The first starts the middle of June and ends in July. The second session starts in July and ends in August. The enrollment for the second season was double that of the first and it is anticipated that the enrollment will double itself again in 1951.

Camp facilities include modern sanitary and refrigeration systems, pure spring water, cabins or tents for sleeping as preferred.

LIQUOR EXCISE TAXES UP 13 PERCENT IN JUNE

Alcoholic beverage excise taxes collected in July on June wholesale trade tataled $1,515,296—up 13 per cent over collections a year ago—according to Jerrold L. Seawell, third district member of the state board of equilization.

Of this total $1,178,953, or 78 per cent, represented tax revenue on sales of distilled spirits, while wine and beer excise taxes accounted for the remaining $336,343.

Collections on alcoholic beverage sales during the entire 1949-50 fiscal year totaled $16,597,465 and practically equalled the $16,600,807 revenue for the preceding fiscal year.

Taxable sales of distilled spirits during June, 1950, were up 21 per cent from a year ago, but sales during the whole fiscal period were off slightly as compared with the previous year.

OPERA STAR TO SING FOR S. F. CENTENNIAL

A San Francisco-born opera star of rising fame will enact the role of San Francisco's all-time favorite coloratura in the Centennial Cavalcade, feature event during the celebration of California's admission to statehood 100 years ago the eight nights of Sept. 2 to 9.

Florence Quartararo is the present day star—and the all-time favorite, as any old-time resident of the town will attest, is Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini.

It was just short of 40 years ago, on Christmas Eve, 1910, that Mme. Tetrazzini made an outstanding gift to the city that had first acclaimed her. Fresh from the homage of the world of music, she contributed her talent to a great free outdoor recital in front of Lotta's Fountain, at the corner of Market, Geary and Kearny streets.

The outpouring of San Franciscans that night is something that will always be remembered and probably never agreed upon as to total. Estimates vary from 100,000 to 250,000. Suffice to say that it was a solid mass of humanity, for blocks around, that stoood in silent admiration as the great diva sang two songs—"The Last Rose of Summer", and "The Waltz Song" from Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet."

The late Paul Steindorf, who conducted the orchestra, was quoted as saying that Tetrazzini's high D in the "Waltz Song" carried so as to be heard distinctly at Fifth and Market! This, before the invention of microphones and loud-speaker systems.

And a present day opera star who wasn't born until almost two decades after the event, but who was told about it when she made up her mind to be a singer as a little girl, will send her own "high D" out over ether waves from a stage in the open-air amphitheater at the Presidio.

This will be the fourth time that Miss Quaratararo has interrupted studies and professional appearances to sing for the Centennial celebrations of her native state. She made her first appearance at Columbia during the Gold Rush celebration the summer of 1949. A few weeks later she assumed a singing role in the Monterey pageant, "Beginnings of Statehood". This summer she appeared in "The Shasta Cavalcade" as a Gay Nineties prima donna.

The role of Mme. Tetrazzini in the Statehood Centennial Cavalcade will climax her artistic contributions to these statewide celebrations.

The bride was beautiful in a white slipper satin gown with net veil edged with Chantilly lace, both dress and veil making a graceful sweeping train as she walked down the aisle on the arm of her father. Her bridal bouquet was white orchids.

The bridesmaids were in pink starched organdy over taffetta, white gloves and pink picture hats. All carried baskets of orchids and gladioli. Bridesmaids were Helen and Anna Chan, sisters of the bride; Alice Ng, sister of the groom; Harriett Lee, friend of the bride.

The groom's brother was the best man.

The reception was held in the social hall where the beautiful four-tier wedding cake circled by orchids, was the center of attraction while being cut by the bride and groom.

The bride's family will be well remembered here as Mr. Hing, a Broad street merchant for several years. The bride received her grammar school education in Nevada City and graduated with honors from Oakland high school.

CAPTAIN BLAKE URGES CAUTION OVER HOLIDAY

If you are driving over the Labor day week-end, remember that the extra day creates an extra traffic hazard, warns Joe Blake, Nevada county captain of the California Highway Patrol.

An outpouring of week-end travel that may exceed previous records is anticipated, in view of the increase in motor vehicle registration, combined with the fact that this is the last long week-end before schools re-open.

Week-end attractions such as the California state fair at Sacramento, the statehood centennial celebration in San Francisco, and numerous community events, will also serve to augment the volume of traffic over that of normal week-ends.

This means extra patience and caution will be the keynote to traffic safety over this Saturday, Sunday and Labor Day.

For traffic safety, motorists are urged to start early, to hold speed down to safe levels at all times, to keep constantly alert to traffic conditions and to the actions of other drivers, and to avoid taking chances.

SAGE HEN HUNTING SEASON IN MONO

So you want to go sage hen hunting?

One of your few chances to match wits with the native California brand of grouse will come Sept. 1 and 2. After careful study, the fish and game commission this year set the first open hunting season since 1944.

Gunning will be legal in Mono county only. A small posted area near Crowley lake will be out of bounds for hunters. Bag and possession limits are two hens a day and two for the season.

Shooting hours begin one-half hour before sunrise and end one-half hour after sunset each day. Concensus of the old timers is that the best hunting time is early morning, when the birds come out to feed and sun themselves.

$868.73 TAKEN FROM 16 SLOT MACHINES

Nevada county's treasury is $868.73 richer after District Attorney Vernon Stoll turned over to Miss Elma Hecker that amount taken from 16 slot machines that were wrecked by members of the grand jury last week.

The machines were seized in a raid of three district taverns by the grand jury last January.

After the machines were broken and coins removed they were hauled to a county dump, saturated with gasoline and burned.

TRAUNER VETERANS SERVICE OFFICER

Deputy County Clerk John T. "Tom" Trauner, court clerk to Superior Judge James Snell for the past several months, was named Nevada county veterans service office by the board of supervisors yesterday.

Trauner will succeed Mrs. Coral Morton, who resigned from the post because of ill health.

Trauner will take over the veterans offices in Raddue building in Grass Valley this morning.

Judge Snell said he regretted Trauner's departure from the court clerk post because of the difficulty of breaking in a new clerk to the complex duties of the court room.

Trauner's chief duty in the new post will be to serve as a liaison officer between veterans and all of the agencies concerned with veteran needs and activities.

In another action the board voted $250 to finance an appearance of the Cornish Gold Miners Chorus at the state fair in Sacramento. Date of the appearance has not been set.

Louis Woods was named chief observer in the North San Juan area as part of the county's disaster council program. More than sixty have signed for observation duty in the area.

DOVE SEASON OPENER IN CALIFORNIA TODAY

Doves will be added to the list of legal hunting targets in California at noon today.

The open hunting season ends Sept. 30. A special 15-day season for the taking of white-wings in Imperial county ends Sept. 15.

Except for today's opening, shooting begins at one-half hour before sunrise. Sunset is the deadline for the duration of both seasons.

Regulations set by state and federal agencies include the prohibition of repeating shotguns capable of holding more than three shells. Daily bag and possession limits are 10 doves of any species.

Yuba County Game Warden E. H. G. Dennett reports doves will be plentiful in the 1950 shooting season, but hunters will be hard pressed to find access to good shooting areas.

The foothill areas around Honcut, Brown's Valley, Smartsville and the northeast of the Camp Beale reservation will, as in years past, be the best spots, but most of the better shooting sections are posted.

The same applies to Sutter County, where doves are thick around the Sutter Buttes, but lands are nearly 100 percent posted.

The value of the Arkansas cotton crop in 1949 was more than 300 million dollars.

LOST MINE OF THE SOUTH YUBA IS GUARDED BY RATTLESNAKES AND SUPERNATURAL SOUNDS IN SHAFT

The following story is from a February, 1890, issue of the Nevada Daily Transcript, and in that issue is purported to be a true article. We have been unable to get any further information about the supposedly lost mine of the Yuba river, and present this story only on its face value.

During the long, cold winter of 1852-53, John Latimer, Seth Green and an unnamed partner were prospecting near the head of the South Yuba and had holed up during the heavy snow season in a cabin they used for several months as a base for mining operations. Nearby was a log cabin which had been deserted during the period they were in the area.

Latimer played a violin during the long hours of one evening and apparently created a homesickness and a mood for an eerie night. The portent of eeriness was fullfilled by a spine tingling hair raising howl that drowned and silenced the violin.

The ghoulish howl was repeated and followed by pistol shots and a noise like the beating of tin cans — or the impoverished alarms of flume tenders. The three men sprang to their feet when the howl resounded and dashed for the door.

They determined the howls came from the deserted cabin, and buckling on guns and snow shoes, started towards the hut.

As the men neared the door of the hut the sounds altered into piteous moans. Hesitantly they paused in front of the door for the early day miner was a superstitious person, but Green, the boldest kicked open the door and entered.

Inside the hut the noises suddenly ceased, but in a few seconds a queer, awesome whistling started that raised the hair of the trio and held them spellbound.

Without warning the floor gave way. Green, in the center of the hut, was held momentarily by a sapling stringer, then swayed and plunged into an apparently bottomless pit.

The remaining two, after they overcame fear, crawled to the edge of the pit, and shouted to the fallen man, but there was no returning voice. Latimer returned to the other cabin, procured a light and a 50-foot rope.

Lowering the rope with the light at the end the men played out most of the fifty feet before they were able to see the bottom of the pit hewn in solid rock.

The two descended into the pit and found Green lying unconscious but not seriously hurt. He was quickly revived.

The three men then began to explore the pit. The walls were lined with seams of gold, some two inches in thickness. They also noticed little round holes that looked like drill holes.

As they looked at the gold with growing avarice, the moaning began again and from some of the round holes, the heads of snakes emerged. The snakes began to crawl from their holes to a mounting crescendo of awfuls moan, and a terrific stench.

By the time the three men had shinnied up the rope the wails and moans were demoniac and they were near breakdown from horror and nervous reaction.

More About Gold Market

of market freedom applies to no other producer.

"It is true that government does step into certain areas, notably transportation, communication and power production for the purpose of regulating rates. This is done because the nature of these industries makes competition impractical. Rates must be established with the consent of official authority to insure a fair price to the consumer.

"But wherever such a price is fixed the statute establishing the regulatory authority is careful to direct that rates be truly compensatory. The law, in other words, properly assures the producer the full recovery of his costs and a fair return on his capital.

"There is no such statutory solicitude for the gold mines. He does not have the right, enjoyed by all unregulated producers, to take his product into the best market. Nor does he have the right, possessed by regulated producers, of recovering a price for his product which will meet his costs and give him a fair margin of profit.

"This double inequity is completely alien, not only to our concept of free enterprise, but to our basic Anglo-Saxon sense of fair play. If the government for any reason feels that a fixed price for gold is necessary as is the case in electric power, railroad transportation and the telephone, then even justice requires that a price be fixed which will cover the gold miner's costs even as utility rates are fixed at fair and compensatory levels.

"On the other hand, if public policy should not require a fixed price for gold then the gold miner should have the same right enjoyed by the maker of candlesticks, and mousetraps, the right to offer his product in a free market for the best price which consumers are willing to pay."

Senator Cain also emphasized that the American public is alarmed and disappointed over the outbreak of war in Korea and the inadequateness of our preparedness. He declared that thoughtful Americans fear that our domestic institutions will be exposed to an internal corrosion as dangerous in its ultimate effects as the threat posed by an external aggressor. Cain added:

"I refer to the opportunity which the Korean incident gives to native planners to impose the shackles of arbitrary control upon our citizens. The record of the last sixteen years shows that the planner, is ready to acquire power not contemplated in the constitution and the statutes, is ready to contrive emergencies which will afford the pretext for exceptional powers. The record also shows that once these powers have been granted, a tenacious and ambitious bureaucracy is most reluctant to relinquish them."

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS DIM FOR COMING YEAR IN LOCAL SCHOOL

There will be no definite indication of football prospects until school opens Tuesday, according to Thomas Nelson, new coach of Nevada City high school, when interviewed this week.

Nelson was running his hopefuls through limbering up exercises and maneuvers Wednesday, the first day of practice.

About six candidates for the varsity were present at the first day of practice, and about 15 candidates for Bob Bonner's B squad were on hand.

Bonner said he expects a 50-50 chance for his squad, although he will not have the services of Steve Pieser, who showed good promise as a halfback last fall.

Nelson was noncommittal regarding prospects for the varsity. Nelson said he hasn't met any of the players other than those who showed up for Wednesday's practice, and he hasn't seen any of the Yellowjackets' opponents.

Nelson starts the 1950 season as coach behind the proverbial eight-ball. He will have to fashion a team from a squad riddled by graduation, and with the handicap of having the smallest squad in the conference.

The new coach said he will try the squad in a T formation offense, although at both Chinook, Mont., and McCloud high schools he used the single wing attack. Nelson said that if the T is not feasible to the squad he may change to single wing or box formation.

Nelson played his football for the University of North Dakota in 1940, 1941 and 1942.

A practice game has been set with Gridley high school and the local school authorities are negotiating a practice game with Willows high school.

The league schedule:

Oct. 6—Roseville.
Oct. 13—Yuba City.
Oct. 20—at San Juan.
Oct. 27—Marysville.
Nov. 3—Placer at Auburn.
Nov. 10—at Grass Valley.

Junior varsity games will start at 6 p.m.
